

Abstract Of The Disclosure

A seat security arrangement for a vehicle seat occupant sitting on a vehicle seat. The arrangement includes a three-point safety belt having an extent forming a shoulder belt extending from the outboard side of the vehicle seat that restrains one shoulder of the seat occupant and another extent forming a lap belt. The arrangement further includes a two-point safety belt extending from the inboard side of the vehicle seat past the respective non-belt restrained shoulder of the seat occupant and thereafter crossing the shoulder belt of the three-point safety belt. Additionally, the arrangement includes a support device located in the respective region of the seat back turned toward the inboard side of the vehicle seat, the support device extending in the direction of the vehicle's forward travel so as provide lateral support to the upper torso of the seat occupant.